

Nashville State School Volunteer Form

Research shows greater parent involvement in educational decision making results in benefits for students such as higher grades, better attendance, and more positive attitudes and behaviour. Education Queensland encourages parents, carers and community members to play an active role in the education of children. "Queensland state schools value the partnership of parents in helping enrich learning opportunities for students". Nashville provides a number of opportunities for parents/carers to be involved in their child's learning and development.

If you are interested in volunteering some of your time, please complete the form below and return it to the office..

Nashville welcomes and values your involvement

Sue-Anne Sheppard
Principal
